URGES SPENDING OF $60,000,000 FOR SHIPS

McAdoo Writes of Need For Vessels to Carry on Commerce

GREENSBORO, N. C.—If America wants world wide trade today, there is only one way to get it, and that is through an American merchant marine, and the United States would be justified in spending $60,000,000 on such a project, according to the views expressed by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of this city. This fleet would be in the merchant service in time of peace and in times of war would serve as a fleet of naval auxiliaries.

"This," said the secretary, "is the time for action. Already we have had too much talk. We cannot be longer dependent on foreign flags. It is not safe to do so. We need American ships, not only for the expansion of our commerce, but we imperatively require them as auxiliaries for our navy. A modern navy without adequate and suitable naval auxiliaries is rendered helpless for offensive operations at any considerable distance from its home base. We would be justified today in spending fifty to sixty million dollars for the creation of an adequate fleet of naval auxilaries."

"It is simply fatuous to hope that private capital will provide these ships. Private capital will not provide them even if the navigation laws about which there is so much fire-sensitive talk, should be changed as private capital demands. We cannot afford to enter upon the scandalous policy of subsidizing private corporations or individuals."

"If you want South American trade, if you want world trade, the indispensable step is an American merchant marine to carry our commerce to the end of the earth, under the protection of the Stars and Stripes.
We shall never be able to carry our commerce to the ends of the earth under any foreign flag."

SILVERFISH A PEST

Honolulu, August 26, 1915.
The insect which does the damage is known by a number of popular names, such as silverfish, silver louse, silver witch, sugar fish, etc. It owes these names to its peculiar fish-like form and its scaly glistening body. As long ago as 1665 it was described as "a very small silvery shining worm or moth which I found much conversant among books and papers." It is about one-third of an inch in length, tapering from near the head to the extremity of the body, and somewhat resembles a worm in appearance. Its entire body is covered with very minute scales, which give it a shiny appearance, and its legs enable it to run about with great facility.

The silverfish is one of the most repulsive pests known to libraries, for it is particularly fond of the paste used in the binding of books. Heavily glazed paper is also attractive to it. Starched clothing, linen or curtains may be seriously damaged if left undisturbed for any considerable length of time, and the insect also feeds upon the starch paste applied to wallpaper. By eating this it causes the wall paper to scale off. Occasionally it gets into vegetable drugs or similar material which is left undisturbed for long periods, and it is open to question whether or not it ever attacks carpets and plush-covered furniture. A somewhat similar insect is commonly called in England a "firebrat" because of its fondness for ovens and fireplaces, where the heat would destroy other insects.

Among the remedies for this household pest in addition to the poisoned paste is pyrethrum. Whenever this can be applied, as on bookshelves, it furnishes one of the best means for getting rid of the insect. Sodium fluoride, which is now recognized as one of the most efficient roach powders will probably also be equally effective against the silverfish. It may be dusted by hand or applied with a powder blower wherever the silverfish is likely to occur. Frequent handling and airing of starched clothing and similar objects will probably be sufficient to prevent injury to these unless they are stored away in damp houses.

This insect is described in detail in a new Farmers' Bulletin of the department, No. 681, which may be had free on application.

DAUGHTER OF KING GEORGE ARRESTED AS A SPY

LONDON, England.—A member of the British royal family, thanks to the efficient espionage of the Allies at the front, has been arrested charged with being a German spy. For four hours Princess Mary was held under guard, while officers investigated her claims to royal privileges.
Having gone on an incognito visit to the hospitals at the front, Princess Mary, accompanied by Mlle. Dussan, started to meet her brother, the Prince of Wales, at the British headquarters. When about six miles from the village her car was halted by a French patrol. Unluckily the occupants had forgotten their passports.
The patrol failed to recognize royalty.

Leaving the car with its occupants under the guard of two French soldiers, and with the assurance that they would be shot at 6 o'clock in the evening, the corporal went in search of the officer in command of the outpost. Not until four hours later did the officer return. The identity of the prisoners was then established.

"How are you going to spend the summer?" "Kicking about the climate and the food, as usual," replied Mr. Growcher, "although I haven't decided what place I'll go to."
